The exhibition ART INSPIRATION SCIENCE. Thomas Schönaauer – The Engineering Artist was accompanied by a panel discussion on 29 November 2018 at the Haus der Universität, Düsseldorf. It began by examining Schönaauer's collaborations with the Henkel corporation and the Institute for Textile Technology at the RWTH Aachen. A crucial question that emerged from this event was: Can art inspire science and if so, how? Phases of the discussion can be viewed in the video recordings below which are central to the article.
